Chart reflects stackability of incentives for the same practice. Most programs will stack different practices.

For example, you could receive a payment from EQIP for a wetland and a payment from SWOF for cover crops.

Chart reflects stackability of incentives for the same acres. Most programs will stack if they are applied on different acres.

For example, you could receive a cover crop payment from WQI for 160 acres (cap), then receive a cover crop payment from EQIP for a different field.

Consider this program if:	You're looking for an easy, straightforward program with little paperwork and flexibility to cancel.	You're looking for an easy, straightforward program with no long-term contract and 50% of payment prior to verification. For beginning or scaling practices.	You're looking for some of the highest incentive rates and don't mind submitting a competitive application with a waiting period.	You're looking for a straightforward program that provides incentives for new or continuing acres.	You're looking for a publicly funded program with an easy sign-up that pays well and allows for flexibility and/or stacking with private incentives.	You don't need to offset the full cost of implementing cover crops, but benefit from an easy, small payment for new or continuing acres.	You transitioned to strip/no-till before the crop year 2015. *Programs for new-acres and cover crops also available. Reach out for info.
